Our Voice

Our voice is quirky and fun.

Quirky describes something that has or is full of quirks, which are odd or unusual qualities.

Usually, a person is described as quirky when they behave in a way or have qualities that are unique to them or that set them apart from others. Things are described as quirky when they have odd qualities. A quirky house, for example, might be painted fluorescent colors or have an odd shape.

Examples:

- Because Janet dyes her hair bright green and wears roller skates more than shoes, people think of her as quirky.
- The painting's irregular shapes and vivid colors give it a quirky feel.

Characteristics of a quirky brand:

- Bright colors
- Unexpected ideas
- A sense of humor

Things to avoid when attempting to be quirky:

- Trying to appeal to the youth by going overboard with memes and "random" humor. You will be labeled as cringe.
- Talking too much/talking down to your audience
- Alienating older generations that might not understand your attempts at modern humor.

Fun: adjective, fun·ner, fun·nest.

Informal. of or relating to fun, especially to social fun: a fun thing to do; really a fun person; the funnest game.

Informal. whimsical; flamboyant: The fashions this year are definitely on the fun side.

Characteristics of a fun brand:

- Seemingly free-spirited in their humor
- An anything goes mentality
- Interactive content loaded with brand-safe humor

Things to avoid when trying to be fun:

- There's a fine line between fun and annoying.
- Over-posting in order to stay on trend may result in brand fatigue.
- Attempting humor and just annoying everyone.

Tagline

Our tagline lets people know what Addition Financial is all about—and that's helping members reach their goals. No matter how big, no matter how small. Whatever you're after, we want to help you get there.

Exceptional banking for everyone, since 1937

Tagline & Logo Lockup

Addition
FINANCIAL CREDIT UNION

Exceptional banking for
everyone since 1937

Tagline spacing is equal to the cap height + leading above the words FINANCIAL CREDIT UNION.

Logo & Variations

Primary Full Color

Primary Reverse

Full Reverse

The blue Addition Financial plus sign is a recognizable, distinct element. So the full reverse logo should be used only when necessary.

Logo Clearspace

Clearspace is equal to the height of the plus sign.

Note: Tagline lockup does not adhere to clearspace guidelines.

Do's and Don'ts

These are all allowed uses of the logo.

The plus sign:

The plus sign must remain upright and vivid blue unless used with the logo when it is gray or white. In that case, it should also be gray or white.

No other colors may be used in the logo without permission. The logo must state the full name of the company "Addition Financial". "Financial" may not be moved from the spot in the last example.

Other do's and don'ts:

Do:

- Cherish and love the logo unconditionally.
- Protect it at all costs.
- Take it for long walks on the beach, it loves that.

Don'ts:

- Don't put it near light, especially sunlight, it can kill them.
- Don't let it get wet with water nor give it any water to drink nor bathe it.
- No matter how much it cries, no matter how much it begs, NEVER feed it after midnight.

Brand Colors

The density of each color on the graph below corresponds to the prevalence of that color in the brand. Yosemite blue is present in every Addition Financial piece. Whereas Pillar green is used very sparingly as an accent color—primarily in web applications.

The PMS colors represent our intent for the final output of our brand colors.

IMPORTANT NOTE: The color formulas were sourced from the Pantone Plus Series Color Bridge (Coated and Uncoated), Second Edition, Third Printing. For ultimate color accuracy, use Pantone Spot Colors. When aligning coated and uncoated inks, work with your print vendor to best match the coated PMS chips.

We like to use our Pillar Green color for Call to Actions, whether it be in print materials, digital, or for our website.

The use of Button Blue is very minimal. This should never be used in high amounts. The main use is for the buttons on our mobile app... hence the color name "Button Blue".

Signature Elements

Blue line

The blue line is Addition Financial's signature. It shows up in every piece. Sometimes calling attention to itself, sometimes playing a background role.

The line can be vertical or horizontal, thin or wide. It can act as a decorative element, or contain copy.

When linked with the logo, the line should match the weight and alignment of the blue plus sign.

When placed over photos, the line cuts behind the photo's subject.

Angled Notch

This angle matches the angle of the A in the Addition Financial logo. Unlike the line, the notch doesn't have to be present in every Addition Financial piece.

When notching photos or color fields, the notch should be either top left or bottom right—the angle shouldn't be flipped. Limit the notch to one per piece.

A+

This element is best used as an overlay to add texture and interest on pieces without photography. It can also be interlocked as a pattern, for adding dimension to larger color fields.

Photo Style

Addition Financial's photo style is best described as Portraits Plus.

Photos feel intimate—like captured moments. Subjects are close to or aware of the camera. But they're never perfectly posed.

It's portraiture, with style.

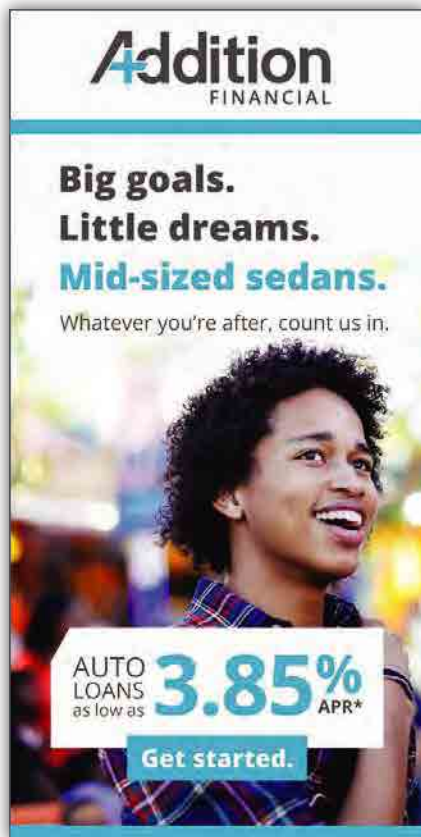

Addition Financial recognizes and values the diversity of the communities we serve. When creating marketing materials, we must ensure all demographic segments are represented to reflect that commitment. A variety of ages and races as well as families of all configurations will be depicted so anyone who see our advertising will feel welcome to join Addition Financial.

Allowing for Change

Great brands are built and maintained with a careful balance of consistency and change.

Change is healthy. Embracing change is an important part of any living brand.

Take Coke for example.

Where would Coca-Cola be today without their iconic bottle design? Their signature red color? Their logo? And at the same time, how relevant would the brand be if their ads still featured GIs sipping Cokes at soda fountains?

The key to effective brand evolution is making sure you don't lose sight of your brand personality, tone or cultural values along the way.

If something makes sense for Addition Financial, but it's not outlined in this brand book: do it.

If, over time, something in this book isn't working: let's change it.

After all, we're talking about a living, breathing thing here. This brand needs room to grow — and if allowed, it will get better with age.

That being said, standards are important. Consistency is key. And in branding, everything we do, we do for a reason.
